Fails To Hold Optimism TOKYO (Sunday) (AP)—The United Nations invited the Communists to talk about a Korean armistice Saturday but Communist reactions were not incouraging.

There was no word of a reply from the Communist military commander early today, more than 16 hours after Gen. Matthew Ridgway suggested peace talks. Official Chinese and Korean Red radios in Peiping and Pyongyang made their final broadcasts Saturday night without even mentioning Ridgway's proposal.

ONE WOMAN'S DAY By NANCY HODGES

SUMPTUOUS SETTING

COPENHAGEN—After my luncheon with the women members, I'was taken by Mrs. Hansen on a tour of the Houses of Parliament and also spent a brief time in both upper and lower Houses, which were in session.

As I noted a few days ago, the Rigsdag building forms one wing of the Christiansborg Palace and is, in consequence, on the same magnificent architectural scale as the rest of Copenhagen's public buildings. From the lofty entrance hall, with its huge marble and stone statues of departed Danish statesmen, two very fine staircases lead, from right and left, to the two legislative chambers above

QUAINT ELEVATOR

HERE I MUST diverge for a moment to mention the to me —odd elevator which runs to the upper floors. It is of the non-stop variety and you have to catch—and leave—it on the fly, so to speak. There is no door to the elevator itself or to the shaft opening, and it runs at such a pace that when you want to ascend you step on it when it is about a foot below the floor at which you are waiting, at the same time making a grab for one of the two handles on either side.

On this sort of open shelf you are whisked up the wall—and the rooms are very lofty—and when you reach the floor you need, you have hastily to step up on to it while the elevator is still about a foot below it. Altogether I found it a distinctly unnerving proceeding, but evidently it is one you can get used to. As to the elevator itself, it seems to have solved the problem of perpetual motion.

LENGTHY LOBBY

HAVING SAFELY emerged from the hair-raising lift, I found myself in a 250-foot-long lobby of marble, with magnifi-cent murals and splendid statues. The upper chamber— Landsting—is at one end and the lower, or Folketing, at the other. My hostess explained that this arrangement was not for architectural reasons alone; it symbolizes the long strug-gle between the two chambers prior to the beginning of this century, when the Folketing became the undisputed leader.

Both chambers are handsome and spacious, with vast win-dows reaching to the floor, painted and frescoed walls, and desks and chairs of limed oak, with light green leather seats.

ORNATE ANTECHAMBERS

BUT IT IS when it comes to the reception and committee rooms that the Danish Parliament Building outshines anyrooms that the Danish Parliament Building outshines anything I have ever seen. What is known as the "conversation room," is like a vast drawing room, with superb paintings, resplendent furniture, priceless ornaments and immense crystal chandeliers.

The committee rooms are on a similar scale of lavish furnishing and handsome setting, as are the cabinet ministers' executive chamber and the reading rooms. Taken all in all, the entire sumptuous setting of this Danish Parliament is not only conducive to work but to a feeling of well-being on the

IN THE GREAT central hall a series of decorative friezes, In the Great central hall a series of decorative friezes, containing inscriptions in mosaic, intrigued me. so my hostess kindly interpreted them. I am quoting some of them here, because their predominant position in that meeting place of parliamentarians impressed me as being significant, not only of the Danes' sense of the appropriate but of their sense of humor as well. Here are a few samples:

"Live in your work while practising it." "Who knows the language of the birds may become a Cabinet Minister."

"Not every cock crowing presages dawn."

"Everybody wants to be master, nobody wants to carry

"God grants every bird its food, but He does not throw

"Not every cackling hen has laid an egg."

"Eloquence often is stronger than the drawn sword." "God tempers the wind for the shorn lamb."

"The cat's playing is the mouse's death."

Canada's Century

TOMORROW CANADA WILL CELEorate its eighty-fourth birthday. Many men and women still living can remem-ber this country when it was a group of quarrelling colonies on the St. Law-rence and in the Maritimes, separated by a wilderness from the tiny settlements of the Pacific coast. In the history of nations we are still in our youth and only beginning now our real period of

Measured by the first reckless hopes of Confederation eighty-four years ago, Canada's progress for about half a cen-tury was disappointing. When Laurier said that the twentieth century belonged to Canada it was a dream only. world wars and a universa! uman revolution, of which they were the symptoms postponed that drawn. Put it can be seen now that Laurier's prediction though a little premature, was sound if the true meaning of his words. It is a literal fact, on this anniversary of Confederation, that Canada is the most for tunate country in the world, and some thing entirely new in human experience

That fourteen million people should have erected, almost without knowing it, one of the world's chief industrial powers, its third largest volume of international trade, its second highest living standard,

Even that material progress does not nake a nation. Like the men who compose it, a nation does not live by bread alone. The real question to be asked on the national birthday, therefore, is how far we have progressed in those intangibles of daily living which are the real measurement of national bread. real measurement of nationhood.

There our progress fell for a long he behind the works of our hands. Lately, however, deep changes in the national mind can be noted, though, in our curious Canadian fashion, we have said little about them, raised few hanners and found no adequate voices to articulate our inward feelings about Canada.

late our inward feelings about Canada. The best evidence of those feelings, of that imponderable force we call Canadianism, is the simple fact that a nation divided by race and geography and constantly shaken by the world's upheaval has come through the trials of eighty-four years stronger than everstronger not only by material calculation but in the unity of its people.

In the last year, it may be said, Canada has paused for the first time in its huge task of economic expansion to consider where it is going. The Massey Commission's report; though ostensibly confined to national culture, is really an attempt to measure the spirit of Canada. attempt to measure the spirit of Canada. Though unsatisfactory in some details, the measurement as a whole shows the nation aware of itself, its hopes, its dannation aware of itself, its hopes, its dangers and its needs as never before. The very fact that it is eager to find out about itself, is no longer satisfied with mere economic indices and seeks a higher purpose and clearer national objectives—this sober inward inquiry reveals a nation coming of age at last.

It is in this sense that the twentieth century belongs peculiarly to Canada. Barring the suicide of civilization through general war, the last half of the century inevitably must make Canada one of the world's great powers but for what is that power to be used? Only for the achievement of a better life, a unique Canadian contribution to mankind?

That is the question we should be

That is the question we should be considering on our birthday. Having conquered space, shouldered aside the problems of economics and largely adjusted ourselves to our original problem of divided races, we now face the ultimate test of all nations at some, point in their bistory, the test of worthiness to in their history-the test of worthiness to enjoy and wisely use the wealth that nature and often mere chance have given us. The century will belong to us if we meet that test, not otherwise.

Against The Tide

WHILE THE NATION HAS NOTED with interest the defeat of the St.

Laurent government in four by elections and the victory of the Conservative party, little attention has been paid to the experience of the C.C.F.

perience of the C.C.F.

In the constituencies in Manitoba, Ontario and Prince Edward Island the socialist party has suffered not mere detailed by the contact of the contac ings its nominees finished at the bottom of the polls, far below the major parties.

This would seem to be the crushing answer to Mr. Harold Winch's communal assurances that his party is coming back after the defeats of recent general elections all over the country. Judged by a sampling of opinion on the prairies, in Ontario and in the Maritimes, the C.C.F. slump continues. The voters in four con-stituencies have revolted against the Liboral government, punishing it for all the ills of the times, including high prices. They have not moved to the left, however. They have moved to the Conservative right. They see no salvation in so-

This is not an isolated phenomenon. It is part of a world-wide protest against statism. The plight of the British Labor government; the defeat of socialist parties in Australia and New Zealand, the movement of western Europe against cialism tas publicly admitted by British Labor leaders) all tell the same story, The free world assuredly is not moving back to the classic capitalism of the 19th century, which is as dead as Adam Smith, but it does not believe the socialist theory that the state can cure everything by painless magic.

In Canada C.C.F. leaders like Mr. Coldwell and Mr. Frank Scott have rec ognized this general trend. At the last national convention of their party they warned their followers against the doc trinaire theories of the Regina Manifesto, tried to cool off the ardor of the left wing and began to set the C.C.F. on a more moderate line which the public might follow.

The results of their efforts so far are disappointing. The C.C.F. is still too full of doctrinaires and fellow travelers, is still supporting a foreign policy of com-munist appeasement which the Canadian people will not accept. But the party's obvious decline will be helpful to Mr. Coldwell and the moderates if it proves to the rank and file that this country is not interested in a revolution, suspects political miracles and does not believe in

It remains to be seen whether the C.C.F. can profit by these lessons or whether, ignoring the current of the times, it must go the way of so many foresters existent particles. forgotten splinter parties.

How To Break One's Neck

Mr. Corsan is 93 years old. He had consulted a doctor only once before when he was 50 and had been bitten by a poisonous snake. He attributes his long life to a wholly sugarless diet, consisting mainly of vegetables, nuts, fruit, rice and fruit juice. On such a diet a man can climb ladders at 93 and break 100 years old attributes her health so to her habit of eating potatoes with their skins on, but it is not known whether she can climb ladders and break her neck without serious results.

By putting these two interesting medical histories together, however, the per-fect method of life can be prescribed no sugar, no meat, unpeeled potatoes and the essential snake bite in early life. Then if a man has a walnut tree and a ladder he can disprove all the theories of medicine. Thus the steady march of scientific discovery to its ultimate tri-umph in a broken neck.

Chips Off The Old Brock

By DAVID BROCK

VINETY years ago today Elizabeth Barrett Browning died, and there came to an end a romance that now moves people much more than her poetry. More than her poetry these last 50 years, may-be. More than her husband's poetry, too, at present, though I see signs of a reviving fashion in Browning

(as of course there should be . . . a perma-nent fashion this time. one hopes). Every time
I think of that romance, and of the tenderness in her writing, too, I feel a little guilty about laughing at Professor Raleigh's pro-

Raleigh did not approve of her as a poet, and he more than disapproved of her influence on her husband's poetry.

HERE is one groan of Raleigh's about her: "What a long time it takes for men like Gilchrist to be found out. A simple culture-bug, brought up in supersimple culture-bug, brought up in super-sition. "Educated poet-lovers." Mrs. Browning is the priestess of the class. The harm she did to Bob! He came to think Jas. Lee's Wife a noble woman, and Any Wife to Any Husband a pure-minded poem. It seems to me tragic that he should have thought most good women were like that." And here is another:

"I have been reading Christina Rossetti. Three or four of her poems, like those of her brother, make a cheap fool of Browning, and leave E. B. B. barely human. I think she is the best poet alive. (1892) You read Wife to Husband (C. R.) and then try to read Any Wife to Any Husband (R. B.); it is like going out of heaven on a visit to a monkey house. R. B. is an educated, interesting progressive pig." He then adds, later in the letter, that "Swinburne says that Christina Rossetti's poem, Passing away, saith the world, passing away, is so much the nobiest of sacred poems in English that none is second."

WELL, the things Raleigh said were only in private letters, at that time. They hurt no one. And they may well have been at least partly true, and needed saying. If more people thought and spoke like Raleigh, literary criticism and poetry would both be better. So would society. Fitzgerald's earlier remark about Mrs. Browning did far more harm, and no possible good. As you may remember, all he did was to thank God that Elizabeth Barrett Browning was dead . . . ninety years ago today as ever was. Years later, when Fitzgerald himself was dead, Browning ran across his pious and cruel thanks to God. Many of you will be familiar with the verse Browning wrote upon this painful occasion, but it is worth printing here any-

Part of my friend's job is to arrange the annual meeting. I do not envy him. It seems to me that if you put on too much of a spread with his money, the shareholders will think you too liberal with his property and even shiftless and extravagant, with no head for business. But if you make the meeting too austere. he will get scared and begin to wonder if anything is left in the till.

By-Election Upsets Stir Both Major Parties To Sudden Flurry Of Political Activity

MICHAEL BARKWAY, Cor respondent of Saturday Night and The Daily Times, From Ottawa

TT'S DIFFICULT to say who was more surprised at the Conservative party's sweep of all the four by-elections held this week. The Liberals had certainly not exepcted to lose in Prince Edward Island. They expected to do well in Waterlee, South (On.

Waterloo South (On-tario), and they felt reasonably sure of win-ning in Winnipeg and Brandon, The P.E.I. result was remarkable because it was in ency which already had one Conservative member, and the natural tendency would have been to choose a Lib. Barkway eral for the second seat. Winnip South Centre was remarkable becau as a C.C.F. member remarked, "The C.C.F. had the best policy; the Conserva-tives had the best man; and the Liberals had the best organization." The man

The most interesting thing about Brandon was that the western Liberals had shouted all over the place that their candidate, Grant MacEwan was the fufure minister of agriculture. This did not endear him to Mr. James G. Gardiner, the present minister of agriculture, or his followers. The Liberals may have fought

Waterloo South, including the town of Galt in Ontario, was the only one of the four seats formerly held by a Con-servative. There had been a good deal of doubt, about whether the Conserva-tives were wise to try to win with a hockey player, Howie Meeker. But the young man made a very good candidate, professed to no special wisdom or knowl-edge, but convinced the voters that he was sincere about wanting, to do his public duty.

Once the first shock of the clean Con-servative sweep had passed, it was hard to find anyone in Ottawa who regretted it. To the Conservative members it came as a terrific stimulant, and they needed one. To the C.C.F., who made a poor showing in the two consituencies where they ran candidates, it was at least bet-ter than a Liberal victory. To most Liberals it was at least better than a

C.C.F. victory. To nearly everyone it was a welcomof nearly everyone it was a welcome sign that the official opposition is by no means down and out. The Conserva-tives can still get good candidates and the organization, which has been the subject of some complaints, must be better than some people pretended. More-over the leadership of George Drew has

The most serious blow to the Liberals is the loss of the two Manitoba seats. One Conservative remarked: "The $65 million wheat bounty was money down the drain. They couldn't have done, any worse if they had not paid the wheat farmers anything."

In the Liberal caucus here the na tural tendency of many private members was to take alarm about their own posi-tion. The government felt increased pressure to do something about the unpopular measures which were supposed to have helped to lose the vote.

PROTEST VOTE

It is not, in fact, very clear how large a part of the Conservative vote and of the Liberals' abstention from voting was due to a protest about the cost-of-living, but it is the part that M.P.'s have seized

Another factor which seems to have weighed with all the constituencies was the general consideration that the gov-ernment had too many members any-way. P.C. speakers used the argument and unquestionably won votes on the idea that a healthy democracy requires a stronger opposition than we have had.

Vic Peeps' Diary

Being A Chronicle Of Our Times

MONDAY, 25th-Having little, fear and less brains, I took to the skies this day and crossed to Vancouver in flight higher than the seagull. In the lobby of a hotel, met many old friends, among them Master William Herbert, rotund and cheerful, fresh home from Korea; Master Douglass Welch of Seattle, a writer of note, who is away for a vacation in the Cariboo; and Sir Rhynd Jamieson, a retired critick of musique, Jamieson, a retired critick of musique, who nears 74 but remains a doughty representative of the Scots race. In a cool room on the second floor, I sat me down in front of a wired box with Master Ross McLean, and discoursed of divers subjects, all very foolish, which will be broadcast and thus contribute to the general lunacy. By and by, to the shores of the Capilano for supper with my mother and other members of my family where I much admired a surrealistic painting of Uncle Percy, and played with a dog called Sam Spade, who has this name because my brother Edward be-lieves in calling a spayed a spade. Thence-by carriage to the airport with Hugo by carriage to the airport.

Meilicke, a good friend and true, whose sage counsel is a refreshing tonick in these parlous times.

TUESDAY, 26th This day being most unyieldingly warm, I did little. In the cool of the evening, I took me to the park and cheered most raucously, and with little dignity, as our team of ath-letes vanquished, but finely and lately, some visitors from the south. And they seem regenerated with a new manager named Master Robert Sturgeon, who has the arms of a dock-walloper. Close by and casting judicious comments on the scene, sat the Attorney-General and his pretty wife, both keen students of athleticks. At home, I picked up a new book, "Tales of Crime and Rascality," by St. Clair McKelway, which I read with the utmost relish, and do recommend without reservation to all students of roguishness of a criminal sort.

WEDNESDAY, 27th-This was a day of intense heat, the thermometer reading 82 degrees, which I am told is a record. Comes to me by air Master David Wil-lock, a journalist of Montreal, wearing a tropical suit of violent aquamarine tints, which cost him £15, but it is most sensible in its coolness. At the club, we lunched lightly on a cold plate and ice cream with strawberries, most delectable to the taste. In passing by, Master Gor-don Root proffered a good cigar, which I smoked, but he would not reveal the reason for his carrying a large box, and disbursing these noxious weeds to his friends, Passing by Oak Bay, I saw Sir Hew Patterson and his good lady stroll-ing by the beach, and assisting errant golfers in quest of lost balls; and I laughed most rarely at Master Ray St. John when his ball came to rest in a broom tree, and he swung at it like a Cricketer, most diligently, but was unable to make it move. By and by comes to visit my mother-in-law, a most excellent lady, and of such character that I am sore taxed to understand the calumnies against these women, and praise God that she is so fine.

THURSDAY, 28th Another oppressive day, so hot that I left off my singlet, and donned a suiting of gossamer material. At my office comes Master Fred Wilkinson and Master Art Strong, to discourse of a plan wherein the youngsters of this city will coast carriages down an incline, the better to understand sport and hobbies, and this noble venture has my hearty blessing. At the hotel. has my hearty blessing. At the hotel, I confronted Mistress Bettye Bryson with a request for three eigars, and this wine ner of the Governor-General's university medal set down the figures for a reckoning, three times nineteen, in the doing of which she made a grievous error, and I must not whisper this to the Senate. Our speaker this day was Commissioner C. E. Rivett-Carnac of the Mounted Police, and a fine representative of the forces of law and order he proved. But so muggy was the atmosphere that many friends removed their jackanapes coats, and sat in their shirtings, a most sensible undertaking. Strolling through the street, I called on Master Courtney Haddock at his new place of business, by name Woodwards, and much admired his china and an ancient timepiece by date 1768. Anon at my offices comes calling Messrs. Warren, Desbrisay, James and Burland of the C.P.R. for a genial coze. they much admiring our new place of business, for which I thanked them. We sang old songs, and toasted Sir Frederick Hincke, a newcomer to these shores and the measurements caused. these shores, and the memories evoked were spiendid. Thus greatly brandled by the day's events, lamely to my repose.

FRIDAY, 29th—This day being most insufferably torrid, I mixed me a tail beaker of sparkling water, and lime, and juniper juice, and sugar, and twist of lemon. Atop I placed a maraschino cherry of merriest hue. Forthwith I decided to a mara the property of the present of the p decided to name this new potion in honor of my friend Jno. Collins. WHAT manner of men are the leaders of the new Yugoslavia? It is important to know, since this little Balkan city, now heavy-scented by the blossom-ing lime trees and almost gay in the brilliant summer wea-ther, is the capital of one of the vital stra-tegic bastions of the tegic bastions of the free world. And it is necessary to inquire because the little group of men who grimly hold this Yugoslav bastion under perpetual threat of Soviet aggression, are so wildly unlike any political leaders anywhere else in the world.

HAS handwriting become less legible down the years? This subject is troubling teachers in many lands, including our own. In the United States a pen company conducted a survey of school principals, and a fair majority believed penmanship is improving. In Yonkers, New York, citizens scrambled through attics for old letters and recipe books. The writing on these was compared with that of children now at school. In virtually every case the children of today wrote better.

Mrs. Irene Burke, chairman of the ommittee on writing in Yonkers' schools, claims the improvement is the result of the simpler type of writing instruction now current, and the dropping of the old emphasis on "arm movement." She says the more utilitarian writing of today is the likely to deteriorate so much under

As a result, his personality seems to have been eroded down to its bedrock. He is not inhuman, nor is he lacking in a rough, mordant humor, which he uses like an axe. Of one statesman-stuffed shirt, he remarked, for instance, that "he had made his success by cour-age; whenever he saw a corpse, he dared to steal its shoes or at least its shoe

And of Stalin, whom he knows a little, he remarked that "espionage is one of his pastimes; Stalin plans kidnappings by the McGB to amuse himself, the way Roosevelt used to play with stamps."

Yet this man's more human side is dominated, as the character of his jokes suggests, by his political preoccupation. He is far from being a one-track mind. Indeed he is a student of history, and this reporter has found few men with whom it is more interesting to talk about the history of recent years. Now he is groping for a different pattern, easier, more free and more humane, which will be better for his people. No one can tell where that queer groping will lead. He expects, on the whole, to have to do so. He has no illusions about what the struggle will be like, for he also ex-pects the Kremlin to try to destroy his people, as the Baltic peoples and the Volga Germans have been destroyed al-ready. He has thought about the mat-ter a great deal—he will tell you, for instance, that "the western Europeans were ruined when they let the Germans occupy them without firing a shot; what the losses are does not matter; you must resist all-out from the first." Rainbow Time New York Times

In early summer the rainbow sea-son is in full swing. Not that the pris-matic arch of promise may not hang in the sky at any time of the year, but its appearance is almost invariably linked with an electric storm, and summer finds hurler of thunderbolts. The bow usually adorns the east, when the rain is moving off in that direction and the sun is shining in the west. Hence the assumed promise of fair weather. A morning rainbow is pos-sible, with the sun bright in the east and a rainstorm approaching from the west, but most thunder showers are afterno or early evening phenomena.
Jove in his most aggressive mood as a

The rainbow is really a complete cir-cle, as aviators know, but groundings never see more than half of it. Its cen-tre is the point in the sky opposite the If the sun is more than 42 degrees above the horizon no rainbow can appear.

Science can explain the retreat of the rainbow as the watcher approaches it in search of the crock of gold known to rest at its end, but science still has ahead of it the task of finding a way to anchor the bow until the searcher can seize the prize,

In Victoria, many people are in terested in growing good pansies for the flower shows, as we no tice each year, and a few pointers on starting the plants might be in order.

Seed should be sown now, or ailing a shady, fairly cool spot or the germination period, at the irst break in the current heat pell. Two-and-a-half-months be-bre the first killing frost is the eciding date, and the idea is to have well-established plants be fore winter. In order to be sure of hitting the various show dates with per-fect flowers, make three or more sowings at 10-day intervals. Soak the finely-screened mixture of soil, sand and peat moss, sow the seed very thinly (seedlings will be stronger), and barely cover with a still finer screening of the same mixture, also well moistened. Fresh seed should germinate in less than 10 days, during which time the seed flat should be kept covered with glass to retain moisture without further watering Should the soil show any sign of dryness, supply moisture by standing the box in water.

Once the seed is sprouted, air and light must be admitted. Lath shade is needed until the seed lings have hardened. Give full ght and air as soon as possible. Prick out into a cold frame or the open ground, spacing 6 inches apart for good-sized plants. A

BULLETIN No. 4 CIVIL DEFENCE LEARN-AND LIVE

AFTER THE RAID

After the "all clear" signal, the first requirement is the restoration of essential services.

Your Provincial, City and Municipal authorities will do all in their power to accomplish this, but the public must know how they can cooperate, no matter what their personal circumstances are following a raid. The more help you can give the sooner services will be restored. Your warden can tell you what you can do to help.

Some people may have their homes destroyed and face desolation. Others may suffer in other ways and tend to be panic stricken. If not checked, rumours will tend to create further panic which gathers momentum: This must not happen. You will be advised by radio, loud speakers, etc., as to what to do. Remember your car radio is independent of the public electric supply.

Offer your services and your home if you are not a casuality.

You Should know:

- Your warden's post.
- Your first aid post.

Do not move serious casualities-make them comfortable until medical aid is available.

Persons suffering from shock cause panic. Do what you can to control them-a confident reassuring voice will do much to prevent stampede.

Do not leave your shelter until the all clear is sounded. When you leave, inspect your house and grounds thoroughly; then offer your help to others, but always be on the alert for a second raid. Do not enter any area marked "DANGER".

Watch for another bulletin in next week's newspaper.

VATICAN CITY (AP)-The Vatican has decreed major excommunication for all who had a part in the arrest, trial and sentence at Budapest this week of Archbishop Joszef Greesz of Hungary.

The excommunication decree, formulated by the sacred consistorial congregation of which the Pope is prefect, parallels the one issued Feb. 12, 1949, after the sentence of Hungary's primate, Cardinal Mindszenty.

The decree inflicts excommunication "latae sententiae." broad sentence, reserved to the authority of the pontiff. It is dated June 29, and is signed by Adeodato Giovanni Cardinal Piazza, secretary of the congregation, one of 11 such bodies that administer Roman Catholic Church affairs. It was published today in the Vatican's Osservatore Excommunication removes persons from the church and its sacraments. In instances of excommunication reserved to pontifical authority, absolvement from it may be obtained only through the Pope.

A defiant Congress gave Mr.
Truman no choice.

He must sign the bill by midnight tonight, or all federal controls on prices, rents, wages and credit will expire.

The watered-down controls bill was Congress' answer to Mr.
Truman's request for a two-year extension of the present Defense Production Act with tougher powers.

Congress passed the temporary extension—which also forbids Price Stabilizer Michael V. DiSalle to impose new price ellings during July—to give it more time to write a permanent

Brooks See N.L. Lead Pared Another Notch

Who stole the music to the Dodger pennant waltz? The Ebbets Field organ has been hitting clinkers lately.

A week ago the Brooks breezed along with a six and a half game lead. The world was their oyster. They could do no wrong. Then came Pittsburgh.

Even a double loss Sunday to the Pirates was charged off as one of those things. But you couldn't laugh off losing two of three to the New York Giants. Last night's 3-2 defeat by the Phillies sounded the alarm bell.

Few players take enough advantage of the opening bid of one no-trump. If your partner makes this opening bid you can double an opponent's overcall with a very meager strength and a very light trump holding.

In today's hand, for example. South should double the overcall of two spades. He knows that North has nearly half the strength in the deck, and his own high cards are more than enough to make it a cinch that the oppoents are out-held in high cards.

True, South is not happy as a lark to double with three tiny trumps. However, he expects his partner to have three spades for the no-trump bid. Hence the com-bined North South hands should
